

Brasenose College Library

A very warm welcome from the library team to incoming undergraduates. Our delightful library is an integral part of Brasenose; it is the heart of the college, and we hope you can make the most of our library and exceptional resources during your time here.

Brasenose College Library is solely for the use of Brasenose students and is open 24/7 via fob access. Brasenose students are also encouraged to explore the wide variety of other libraries you have access to, such as Bodleian and Departmental libraries.

Everything you need to know about Brasenose Library can be found on our libguide here <https://libguides.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/c.php?g=657063>. We will provide more extensive details upon induction, but you are more than welcome to email the main library email address (library@bnc.ox.ac.uk) or Liz and Joanna if you wish to know more prior to arrival.

The Bodleian Library is the main university library that all students have access to and is separate from Brasenose Library. We do, however, share an online catalogue with all Bodleian, Departmental and College libraries, called SOLO. This is where you will search for books and e-resources. The Bodleian have created an excellent webinar detailing all you need to know about getting started in Oxford, which we would like you to watch prior to arrival as it is extremely helpful. We hope you are excited to start your journey with us and we look forward to welcoming you to Brasenose Library very soon.
